Jenkins Flat Happenings

CORRESPONDENCE.]

September has come and nearly gone. We had a fine rain and the late crops are looking well—very well. The turnip patches are simply humping it.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and her father have been guests of Slocum Riley. He is a physician and will return east right away. We are badly in need of a doctor in this community.

Still the inflow of homeseekers is unabated and the public domain is almost absolutely turned into homesteads. I would to God that we had as much more so all could get homes that need them.

Our week before last communication reached the paper too late for publication and our announcement that Jeffrey would preach at Ogle Flat suffered as a consequence, but it would have failed any way on account of the small pox, but the appointment will be made good at another time.

Two new houses have been put up the past week in sight of Jeffrey's place. J. W. Jobe has worked his old house over by putting on a new roof and making other improvements, and Mr. Hoover, from somewhere in the north, is a builder and Wm. Dodson from Willbarger is building a rock house.

It is wonderful to look out over the country and see the feed stuff that is now ready to harvest on these plains. The people haven't the time to stop and finish the school house, but some one will have to make a sacrifice in order that we may have a school for our children.

Health is generally good in the community. Mr. Jeffrey is the only sick we have any knowledge of. He has a badly swollen thumb and fears the possibility of blood poison. He was in Tucumcari Tuesday and had the hand dressed and is taking all the care of it possible. Mr. Jeffrey's affliction is very unfortunate for him at this time as his crop is ready to harvest and he is unable to take care of it and it is next to impossible to secure help among the farmers as all are busy in their crops.

We intend to have a meeting here on Saturday night to see if we can raise funds to build a second story on our school house for the secret orders. Odd Fellows and Woodmen have a special invitation to be present and everybody who will interest themselves are wanted. Mr. Wayne has been elected treasurer of the school house funds and will take care of the receipt and expenditure of these funds. Preacher Robinson has paid in ten dollars, so come on boys, and let us dig up for a good cause.
